

ESPC 2009 - Winnipeg (Manitoba)

The Secret Life of Spice

Division: Sciences physiques et des mathématiques / Aucun

Catégorie: Intermédiaire

Région:

Ville: ,

École:

Sommaire: This project studied the effects of antimicrobial properties. Two spices were tested, (Paprika, and Oregano), to find if they could inhibit the growth of either a gram-negative bacteria, or a gram-positive bacteria. The results were that Organic Paprika can inhibit the growth of Pseudomonas putida a gram-negative bacteria, and also Staphylococcus epidermis a gram-positive bacteria, at 8%, better then the other substances tested.

Prix	Valeur
Mention honorable - Sciences de la vie - Intermédiaire	100,00 $
Commanditaire: Pfizer Canada
Total	100,00 $