

CWSF 2010 - Peterborough, Ontario

Jasman Saran

Cryobiology

Division: Earth & Environmental Sciences

Category: Junior

Region: South Fraser

City: N.Delta, BC

School: Khalsa School (Surrey)

Abstract: The project demonstrates the decomposition of carnations at different temperatures. Water was added to some carnations to see how the submerged carnations compare to dry ones. This project studies modern uses of cryobiology.

Biography

My name is Jasman Saran. I am a student of Khalsa School in Surrey, B.C. I am a Capricorn. In the Future I want to be a pedritician. I have have desire to get a PHd. I enjoys reading non-fictional books, watching CSI, and doing variety of different arts.