Biography

I am a talented and creative person, I love to draw and paint realistic things such as portraits, landscapes, flowers and animals. I am also a very athletic person, who is dedicated to sports, specifically hockey. Being competitive and persistent my whole life has made me succeed to a higher extent, especially in school. I plan on becoming a Doctor, a family doctor to be exact. School is my main priority, I tend to shoot high for my grades. Although, I am girly, I love to shop! I was inspired by a friend one day. She was talking about her hair and that's when I got curious, thinking that it would be a great topic to research. I want to do a study on Climate Change. I recommend people to try it out, trying new things never hurts. It opens new doors and opportunities. You learn things on your own. Doing something that interests you is always a good idea. Which means you will put the effort into your project, having a better outcome. You can also experience new things, which is never a bad thing.
