Enhancing Conceptual Memory by Sleep Learning

Challenge: Health

Category: Senior

Region: Beaufort-Delta

City: Inuvik, NT

School: Samuel Hearne Secondary School

Abstract: Learning might be possible by keeping the sense of hearing active during sleep. Thirty-two participants (ages 12 and 18) were randomly selected. The experimental group listened to a math and English audio lesson while asleep in addition to reviewing lesson notes the next day. Participants were tested after 7 days. The test scores for the experimental group were significantly higher than the control group.
