

CWSF 2006 - Saguenay, Québec

Annessa Good

The O.K. Corral

Division: Physical & Mathematical Sciences

Category: Junior

Region: Central Alberta

City: Cremona, AB

School: Cremona School

Abstract: This project used an experimental model to test cattle's behavioral patterns under three different handling methodologies in a corral system. Specific characteristics including a time assessment were the variables. Seven different trials utilizing five cattle were the basis for this experiment. Herding cattle on their left side in a calm and slow methodology proved to be the safest and most productive handling technique.