Musical Memory

Region: Mi'kma'q First Nation

Abstract: For this project I studied the relationship between memory and music. I was interested in seeing if people perform a memory task faster when they are completing it with music playing. I think this would be interesting to look at, as students often ask to listen to music while working and I wanted to see if there would be a relationship between the two.

Biography

My name is Kaleah Sack and I am a Mi'kmaq First Nations from Indian Brook, Nova Scotia. I chose this project because I am interested in how students perform on tasks when using music. To continue this project, I would like to involve more test subjects, allowing for a wider variety of ages and genders.
