Does More Money Mean More distance in Golf Balls?

Division: International / None

Category: Intermediate

Region: Fraser Valley

City: Rosedale, BC

School: Chilliwack Secondary

Abstract: This project studied different brands of distance type golf balls to see if you are paying more for brand names or better performance. After hitting the golf balls with a machine that applies the same amount of force each time, the results were that the balls were pretty much the same. In conclusion you are paying more for the brand names, not for better performance.

Biography

My name is Tyler Clarke and I am a grade 10 student at Chilliwack Senior Secondary School. I live in of Rosedale, BC with my family of four, and we live on a sort of makeshift farm. We have several cats and some small farm animals (i.e. chickens, ducks...). I play ice hockey for the Chilliwack Minor Hockey League in my spare time. The things I like most about life are hockey, golf, and music. I enjoy to golf during the summer because the hockey season is over by then and I live quite close to a 9-hole course. In the future I would like to study and become a kinesiologist, which would combine sports and work into one.
